

The Reconnection Heal Others Heal Yourself Notes

On Pg 92, Pearl suggests that “at one time we may have had 12 strands of DNA, rather than two strands, and then expands his reconnection healing to reconnecting strands.

The claim that there are 12 strands of DNA appears to be a popular “New Age” notion. There is no scientific support of that concept.

On pages P 92-94, Pearl provides a brief discussion of the main problem confronting modern physics; ie, the incompatibility of quantum mechanics with relativity theory, and takes up one possible reconciliation, string theory, in an apparent effort to relate his concept of reconnection healing to science. The slight of hand logic is interesting:

He notes that physicists working with string theory are postulating that strings exist in anywhere from 7 to 11 different dimensions beyond our traditional time and space. What does this mean to Pearl? For one thing we know they point out how much scientists still have to learn, and also that there are other dimensions out there.

He has jumped from a hypothesis to a reality.

“Combine that with the unstable, unpredictable nature of this universe according to quantum mechanics, and you have not only scientific support for the concept of multiple dimensions, but also multiple universes-in this case, parallel universes..”

Although Pearl doesn't show us how he got there, real scientists, once accepting the hypothesis of 7 to 11 additional dimensions, ascribe to string theory a connection with multiple parallel universes.

“Up until now, the majority of us have only been aware of the one universe we occupy. Via the new reconnection frequencies, we are now able to interact with other planes or dimensions...consciously.’ We are able to transcend our 5 basic senses.

Although string theory and multiple parallel universes are at present purely hypothetical, Pearl's healing methodology does not need them to be valid.
